

P1006 Global Citizenship: Diversity and Tolerance

---

CIP: 450101 Social Sciences, General.

CL-L-A-U-CA-ID-AS-AI-CT-HT-S-UDC: 3-0-1-8-3-45-15-84-24-144-15-3

Discipline:

Political Science

School:

Social Sciences and Government

Academic Department:

Political Science and International Relations

Programs:

Competitions:

SEG0401A A ; SEG0604A A ; SEG0503A A ;

Prerequisites:

None.

Equivalences:

HS1001B

Course intention within the general study plan context:

Course objective:

Course topics and subtopics:

Specific learning objectives by topic:

Suggested methodologies and learning techniques:

Teaching and learning techniques:

Problem-based Learning

Estimated timing per topic:

Suggested evaluation policies:

Suggested Bibliography:

TEXT BOOKS:

- * González Velázquez, Eduardo, Ciudadanos a la mitad. Migrantes por doquier, Guadalajara : La Jornada, 2014, spa, 9786079654900
- * Mingst, Karen A, Fundamentos de las relaciones internacionales, 1a ed., México : CIDE, 2006, spa, 9687420367008
- * Axel Honneth, La lucha por el reconocimiento. Por una gramática moral de los conflictos sociales, Barcelona : Crónica , 1997, spa,

Support material:

Academic credentials required to teach the course:

(450101)Master Degree in Social Sciences and (451001)Master Degree in Political Relations and (130101)Master Degree in Education and (270501)Master Degree in Statistics and (420101)Master Degree in Psychology and (510000)Master Degree in Health Science and (450101)Doctoral Degree in Social Sciences and (451001)Doctoral Degree in Political Relations and (130101)Doctoral Degree in Education and (270501)Doctoral Degree in Statistics and (420101)Doctoral Degree in Psychology and (510000)Doctoral Degree in Health Science

CIP: 450101, 451001, 130101, 270501, 420101, 510000

Language of Instruction:

Spanish